

Solutions for Public Education with Zero Probabilty of Implementation:

Draco is long dead

- Change child-rearing practices in America to those used prior to 1946. For over 200 years, discipline and the word “no” were not politically incorrect.
- Fire seventy-five percent of all school teachers, and triple the pay of the remaining twenty-five percent. Pay new hires at the same higher pay scale. Hire non-obese teachers with a minimum Wechsler Adult Intelligence Scale (W.A.I.S.) of 115, the 85th percentile. Require subject proficiency instead of a degree in education.
- Fire fifty percent of all school superintendents and principals; triple the pay of those remaining and all new hires. Hire non-obese superintendents and principals with a minimum W.A.I.S. of 120, the 90th percentile, and skip the education degree.
- Fire seventy-five percent of all middle-management school administrators. Do not replace them.
- Set a maximum size per school district of 20,000 students with a maximum of five school board members.
- Eliminate teacher unions. The majority of school teachers have been on a "sit down" strike for decades. Further, smart, capable, well paid teachers need no protection from employee termination.

Guy Odom
August, 2002
